WE NOMINATE

Millard Meiss, possibly the most perceptive art historian yet produced in these United States and a Princetonian since 1958, who over the weekend became the first American ever to serve as president of the International Committee of Art History—the tightly-knit organization which made possible the past week's 20th International Congress of the History of Art. In a period when Americans and Russians alike are debating the advantages, and disadvantages, of fallout shelters, the 57-year old Meiss went beyond the question of human survival in urging all nations to take the steps necessary to insure the preservation of their works of art in face of "the danger of destruction".

Speaking before the representatives of 21 countries, Meiss, a member of The Institute for Advanced Study for the past three years, suggested that each state has no time to lose in accelerating the completion of photographic archives for its masterpieces of art. It is his conviction, although scholars are not in complete agreement on the principles governing the conservation of art works, that any nation anywhere must regard the project as imperative so that at least "the shadow of its art treasures may be assured survival" and oncoming generations of students may have opportunities to reconstruct what has gone before.

One of the few top-flighters in his field to have served a two-year apprenticeship in industry prior to entering upon his life's work, Meiss, Cincinnati-born and a member of the Princeton University Class of 1926, brings to his profession the tough-mindedness of a corporation executive. In his new post, he hopes to enlist the support of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in working toward an international exhibition devoted to the principles of conserving art and he won't hesitate to tap the knowledge of experts in exploring ways of making more effective use of photographic documentation and conservation.

Meiss, whose first contact with The Institute was as a Visiting Fellow in 1910, completed his graduate training at New York University and did his first teaching at NYU. He joined the Columbia Faculty in 1934 and over the next two decades developed a reputation, particularly for his pioneering work in the 11th and 15th centuries, that led one authority to describe Meiss' "connoisseurship" in Italian art as "the closest possible approximation to an exact science." The combination of his teaching, researches and writing led to his appointment in 1951 as Professor of Fine Arts at Harvard and also as Curator of Paintings in Harvard's prestigious Fogg Art Museum.

The recipient in 1953 of the Flaskins Medal, the highest honor awarded by the Medieval Academy, Meiss played leading roles in the editorial development of two of the country's major art periodicals, "The Art Bulletin" and "The Magazine of Art". An editor with the Office of War Information during World War II, the energetic Meiss, whose non-professional interests range from farming to music, was decorated by the Italian government for his efforts in restoring the art treasures of Italy following the collapse of the Nazi legions. For a period of five long post-war years he had been the highly effective chairman of the American Committee for the Restoration of Italian Monuments.

For raising the standards of American scholarship in an area traditionally dominated by Western Europeans; for symbolizing this community's growing and deep concern for all facets of men's knowledge; for meriting the distinction which has been conferred by his peers; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

The school has some fine new dental equipment (so has Johnny, being only 6 years old) and regular check-ups will continue to be part of the school's physical fitness program. One complication without these two districts, at Littlebrook is that a problem he found that Princeton's projected increase in fifth grade Township, West Windsor and enrollment turned out to be Montgomery Townships had an increase in the first grade grown enough to take up the instead.

Riverside now has 271 pupils registered, in contrast to 245 in 1960 on opening day. Johnson Park has 276, opposed to 271 in 1960.

The Township gained new pupils, but lost some faculty. Two casualties are traceable to the new build-up in the kindergarten through five armed forces. One new teacher, already replaced, resigned because her husband was called into the army. Joseph and the Seminary have not yet opened and, according to the Air Force on October 1.

At Witherspoon, there are 283 pupils, compared to last year's 301. The same factor of University and Seminary opening applies here; in addition, Witherspoon is smaller because Plainsboro was dropped two years ago, and the last Plainsboro children were graduated from Witherspoon in June.

At present, only Rocky Hill sends children to the Borough's elementary schools. They attend from grade 3 on.

And in the Township, The four schools in Princeton Township opened their doors on Friday to 1,690 boys and girls. Dr. John McKenna, acting superintendent, counted on 80 new pupils and got 63.

At Valley Road, there are 289 in kindergarten through sixth grade, and 307 in grades 7 and 8. Last year, the comparable totals were 296 and 320.

Littlebrook found itself with about 20 more than anticipated, with 362 against last

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, Sept. 13, 1951 One of the few gun-point robberies in the town's history was perpetrated at The Wine and Game Shop, with two Princetonians the victims of cold-blooded "pistol-whippings." Beaten by the trio of hold-up men were Edward Clohossey, 27-year old clerk on duty in the store and Ernest Hoagland, 52, long-time employee of South's Garage who was a customer at the time.

Struck with pistol butts and then ordered to lie on the floor while the cash register was being rifled of more than $200 Mr. Clohossey and Mr. Hoagland were treated at Princeton Hospital. The armed robbery of a Princeton liquor store was the second in a matter of months. O'Kane's at 236 Nassau having been held up in similar fashion earlier in the year.

McCarter Theatre closed its summer season with the announcement that producer Herbert J. Kenith would not be back to direct the 1952 program . . . "Mr. Roberts" was booked to open the fall season . . . The Playhouse was offering Cary Grant and Jeanne Crain in a medical school drama, "People Will Talk," while Lex Barker was cast in "Tarzan's Peril" at the Garden.

A softball tripleheader was planned for University Field, with proceeds benefitting players who had incurred medical bills for injuries received during the season. Winners of the various league championships were the Phantoms in the A League, the Post Office Social Club in the B League and King's Inn in the Girls' League. Princeton's football team was busy abuilding, with tailback Dick Kazmier the only player returning from the offensive platoon which had had a major part in the previous season's 9-for-9 record. . . . Cornell was generally regarded as the team to beat as Charlie Caldwell and Captain Dave Hickok eyed the 1951 schedule and a fifth straight Big Three title.

On the birth list at Princeton Hospital were daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Borden, 188 Prospect; Mr. and Mrs. John McAuliffe, 113 Bayard Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reizer, Cherry Valley Road; Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaPlaca, 30 Spruce; Mr. and Mrs. Burnet Fisher, Coventry Farm; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Prione, 135 Bayard Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson, 33 Ewing.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mason, 14 Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. John P. Van Zandt, Skillman; Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Hamer, 8-A Sergeant; Mr. and Mrs. Elisha White, 138 Witherspoon; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Parker, RD 1, Mr. and Mrs. John Pesce, 60 Leigh Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Leary, 331 Witherspoon.

Business Notes: The Rug Mart held its grand opening in new and larger quarters on State Road 206, drawing more than 1000 for the occasion. . . . The Business Division of the Community Chest drive was headed by Stuart Gerber and Fred VanDeventer. . . . Sears, Roebuck had a sizeable store on Palmer Square. . . . The Gallup Poll, occupying its new building on the corner of Chambers Street, asked that the new extension of Bank Street be named "Bank" and not Huffish, despite the fact that the new thoroughfare ran across Chambers into Huffish. Said Gallup spokesman to the mayor and council, "We consider the name 'Huffish Street' a business liability."

jett called for a 200-300 acre lake for swimming, boating and conservation, four golf courses with a club house, baseball diamond and softball facilities.

The Rutgers study, prepared under the guidance of Dr. Ibrahim Elsaikak, assistant professor of regional planning, was made by students in the regional planning department at the request of the Mercer County Board of Freeholders.

It has been presented to the Freeholders and to the county recreation department, but has not been adopted as a county plan. The West Windsor parcel is one of four or five blocks of land in the county which the study suggests for recreation and conservation purposes. Others are in Hamilton Township, on the Delaware River, and so on.

So far, the county has not committed itself on any part of the plan and has not determined where the necessary funds would come from, assuming the plan were adopted.

A general alarm Saturday at 2:45 a.m. brought the Princeton Fire Department to 171 Birch Avenue, home of Silas Massay . . . the blaze was confined to the front porch, in which police suspect juveniles had thrown gasoline.

The week was marked by a series of minor accidents in Princeton Township: Mrs. W. G. Kayser, Jr., 249 Riverside, struck a Suburban Transit bus at the intersection of Nassau and Riverside, no injuries. . . . Orville H. Marten, Dutch Neck, driving across the Washington Road Bridge after dark struck a pedestrian, Leo Hoagland, 23 Clay Street, with minor injuries to the latter's ankle.

Person To Person

The other day a friend was talking about how everything made by man comes from mother earth, and how miraculously seen the changes and combinations that men make from nature's products.

He said he wasn't thinking just of modern technology, which is beyond amazing, but that very old processes could be used to illustrate these interesting facts. For example, from the simple plant, flax, comes such different products as linen cloth from the stem fibers, and linseed oil from the seeds, which follow its bright blue flowers.

To name a few uses of linseed oil, it is basic to the making of paint, ink, linoleum, oil cloth, some medicines, etc. Then, after the oil has been removed, the residue from flaxseed becomes a cattle food about four times more nutritious than hay, and it also becomes a good fertilizer.

Even this little example makes obvious the tremendous organization and efficiency of nature. In its endless cycle, few care to contend this all happens by chance. Nothing so efficient ever comes about consistently by chance, just as an automobile dealer that can serve you well and economically can only be the result of good organization, founded on a world of experience and a desire such as ours, really to serve, in every sense of the word.

COUNCIL MEETS

Hears Chamber, Sage. Urban renewal, parking, Harry's Brook and civil defense: the problems, big and small, that press a community for solution were discussed by Borough Council Tuesday night, sometimes with the flare of a good hot temper, sometimes with the sober concern gendered by thoughts of the future of community and world.

With two letters, one on parking and one on urban renewal, the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council sparked heated replies from Mayor Raymond F. Male and Councilman Dan D. Coyle.

In the letter on urban renewal, the Chamber said that most of its members favored completing the link in the parallel through-street from Avalon to Wiggins. However, the Chamber's spokesman, George R. Cook, III and Theodore S. Reed, said the group could not reach a position on the method of relocating Jackson until they had full information on the relative costs and tax benefits of relocation with and without Federal aid. They also asked that Mayor and Council make available to the public detailed information on estimated costs and benefits.

Mayor Male told the Chamber representatives that urban renewal information had already been made very public indeed and that without Federal funds, the estimated cost would probably be $245,000 with loss of tax revenue. With urban renewal, the cost would be much less, he said, but indeterminate because, among other things, nobody knew how much it would cost to acquire land. The actual cost

Mondone to Retire

Raymond Mondone, Chief of the Borough police force for the last three years, has asked to retire, as of November 1 of this year. His letter of resignation, in which he requested terminable leave beginning November 1, was read to Borough Council Tuesday by Councilman Dan D. Coyle, Police Commissioner.

Mr. Coyle expressed to Chief Mondone, who was present, his "profound gratitude" for the years of service he has given to the Borough. "I have great respect for Chief Mondone as a man and as a friend," said Mr. Coyle.

The whole town is grateful to you for all you have done," Mayor Raymond F. Male added.

Chief Mondone has been on the Borough force since March 15, 1928.

of the new street, he said, would be about $50,000.

A Process of Renewal. Then, rolling up his sleeves, Mayor Male delivered again, almost in full, his January, 1959 inaugural statement in which he expressed his thoughts about urban renewal and its value to Princeton.

He said that urban renewal was not just a street, not just a device for commercial rateables, not just a slum clearance project, not just a parking solution.

"It is a process for renewing the community selectively to prevent its decay and to promote better living for the people of Princeton," he stated.

He also said that the Borough was not going to the Federal government "with hat in hand to get a buck." He said that a community in which two-thirds of the property is in tax-exempt rateables has a problem, and he added that he did not regard the Federal government as a "foreign power" but "part of us."

Echoing the Mayor, Councilman William Walker took issue with the Chamber's request to make information available to the public. He said that many public hearings on urban renewal had been held before the formation of the Chamber, but pointed out that everything connected with the problem had had wide public discussion.

Parking? In its second letter, the Chamber, over the signature of Frederick M. Blaicher, president, said to the Mayor and Council: "If you believe, as we do, that..." and then listed eight parking problems which it said were facing the town, including use of meters by employers and employees, loss of business to areas where parking is no problem, lack of a uniform system of parking, and so.

The letter asked the Borough to retain an engineering firm to survey the situation and make recommendations, pointing out that members of the Chamber had worked at some length on the problem of parking already.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

The letter also expressed the opinion that an effort should be made to make Princeton "a local point for better goods and services." Mayor Male took issue with this view, pointing out that many Princeton residents object strongly to having the town a shopping center, and suggesting that this area needed some exploration.

"I think this Chamber letter is strictly impertinent," stated Councilman Coyle, "and some of the things it says are regrettable and unfortunate. I particularly object to the phase 'if you are interested,' when you consider the time and effort the Borough has been making to solve this parking problem."

"I have the deepest respect for Mr. Blaicher, but I am sorry he signed this letter. I think it's time somebody told the Chamber what is going on and explain to them what the word 'civic' in their name really means. I would like to meet with the Chamber: they want to meet with Council. I would also like to mention for the record that we on Council have received no help whatsoever from the Chamber in any of our parking negotiations now proceeding."

The Brook Again. Moving on, or into, Harry's Brook, Council heard Arthur Brokaw, Borough engineer, give a report in which he made five recommendations on control of the skittish stream:

(1) Institute an engineering survey of the whole brook with Township and county engineers, the University and the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association; (2) encourage property owners, local and county governments to undertake stream improvements; (3) ask the county for continuing assistance (Council later did so) and build the Harriet Drive culvert to meet county requirements; (4) rebuild, where necessary, the channel on the property of K. A. Wells, 61 Harriet Drive; (5) if there has been major property damage, increase the straightening the bed and raising the ground level

Civil Defense. In a lengthy civil defense report, Captain Geoffrey Sage, Civil Defense and Disaster Control Director, asked for $3,000 to build a fall-out shelter in the engineering building which would serve the dual purpose of providing an exhibition shelter for people who were interested in building one, and would protect both the Civil Defense staff and its delicate instruments, including a generator. He suggested that Borough and Township divide the sum.

—CARLA

As the September heat continued the question was, would Carla produce any fringe benefits for the sheltering eastern seaboard?

The Man admitted there was a chance of some badly-needed rain, possibly by Thursday. It was even expected to "cool off to the low 80's," he said, noting that the last of the 90-degree readings had very possibly been reached on Tuesday. In general, however, continued unseasonably warm through the end of the week.

Following another recommendation by the Civil Defense director, Council later introduced and passed on first reading an ordinance to waive the building permits fee for a shelter "designed to be constructed specifically and exclusively as a nuclear fallout shelter". Public hearing on the ordinance is scheduled for October 10.

The wording was chosen, Borough Attorney John McCarthy explained, to avoid the word "use". A home-owner can build a shelter specifically for fallout and use it as a recreation room in the meantime. But if he tries to sneak in a recreation room and avoid paying the permit fee by calling it a fallout shelter, he will be restrained by the wording of the ordinance.

Captain Sage told Council that requests to his office for information had risen sharply in the past six weeks, with 80 percent of the requests from the Township and 20 percent from the Borough.

Councilman Albert Austen reported that a new organization which seeks to establish a junior museum of the arts and sciences in Princeton had been warned away from the former Lamplighter building, which the group originally wanted, because the structure no longer has any heat or plumbing.

At Councilman Austen's suggestion, the sponsors of the group are now considering a University-owned building on the corner of Spring and Tuane. Mr. Austen also said that Mr. Brokaw is obtaining estimates on the razing of the Lamplighter building.

APARTMENTS VETOED

By Township Planners. Multiple housing would be inconsistent with the serious attempts that have been made to maintain the Township as a single-family home, low density, physically attractive and uncongested place to work and live." So states the report issued by the Township Planning Board this week, after four years of study by professional planners and citizens groups.

The Board reached the conclusion that development of multiple housing in the Township would be "inconsistent with the standards and policies regarding the character of the area as they have been developed in the course of the Master Plan studies made since 1957." About 60 percent of the Township is still in large parcels, and the Board feels it would be unwise to open them up to speculative development which would detract from the character of the community.

On the other hand, other Township properties available and suitable for multiple housing are so small that their development would simply create pockets of apartments which would have no appreciable effect on the housing situation. The Board considers suitable locations for multiple housing would be near the center of town, and this aspect of the housing question is complicated by the Borough planning consultant's recommendations which have not yet been discussed at a public hearing.

In considering the arguments in favor of multiple housing, the Board concluded that such apartments would probably not be occupied by older people and young couples, whose needs are the greatest, since there would be no guarantee of low rentals. The report states that people who now live elsewhere would in all likelihood be attracted to the Township by high-rent apartments.

The Board intends to continue its study of multiple housing regulations with respect to educational institutions.

News Of The THEATRES

THE HOUSE AT 19 BANK
Home for Actors. There were times last winter when the weather was something out of "Lear" and any actor who had rented inexpensive quarters in the country found himself giving a one-man show to a one-man audience instead of making it to McCarter for rehearsal. There were also occasions when Friends of McCarter Theatre ran a shuttle service between Princeton and the frontier, bringing in actors who did not own a car.

Past tense, all of it. This season, McCarter Theatre has leased an unfurnished house in the heart of Princeton and will rent its space to members of the McCarter company. The house is 19 Bank Street, almost in the wings of McCarter.

Like the other houses on Bank, this one is turn of the century, sturdy, tall and narrow. It is the southern half of a double house with two rooms, kitchen and shower-lavatory on the first floor, three bedrooms and bath on the second floor and three rooms and bath on the third floor.

Zoning laws allow a maximum of 12 in this space, and the theatre management expects to have no difficulty finding 12 actors and actresses who will jump at the chance to live inexpensively, close to the theatre, in the company of fellow actors who will not be annoyed by a 2 a.m. homecoming after the show.

Want to Help? Nancy Shannon, McCarter's new full-time administrator, hopes to have 19 Bank ready for occupancy by the end of September. There is, however, a great deal to be done in the old house. Commercial cleaners have already scrubbed it, but the Dramatic Theatre of Stockrooms need paint and the furniture needs paint and the almost all of Ibsen's plays. In addition, she has toured with Maurice Evans and Eva Le Gallienne, starred on Broadway, and appeared in numerous movies. She was last seen in McCarter with Miss Le Gallienne in "Mary Stuart."

For its second offering of the 1961 season, McCarter will offer Michael MacLiammoir's one-man show, "The Importance of Being Oscar," written by Mr. MacLiammoir from the writings of Oscar Wilde and based on his life and works. "Oscar" was imported last year from London by Sol Hurak and had a successful New York run before starting on tour. It will be presented in McCarter on Monday, October 9.

Following these curtain raisers to the 1961 season, McCarter will open its own drama season on October 14 with Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." After the initial play, McCarter will present Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion." —Continued on Page 6

In addition, the house needs willing hands. Most of the furniture already there needs paint, and probably the furniture that people will donate will need paint, too. Somebody must hang curtains and lay rugs and move tables and chairs.

Anyone, therefore, with time, furniture or ideas to contribute is welcome at 19 Bank. Volunteers should call either Mrs. Webster at WA 4-0974 or Miss Shannon at McCarter, WA 1-8700 to make arrangements for delivering furniture or signing up to work.

Miss Mary Kerney has begun to organize a crew of teenage boys and girls, the kind of eager young theatrical buffs who will do any work, so long as it's for the theatre, and these young people will probably form a work core. Miss Kerney may be reached at WA 1-6923.

"HEDDA GABLER" COMING
Will Open McCarter Season. With a one-night presentation of Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," fresh from an extended run in New York, McCarter Theatre will open its fall season on Thursday, October 5, at 8:30 p.m.

The production stars the Scandinavian actress Signe Hasso as the frustrated and embittered Hedda Gabler. Miss Hasso, who received her dramatic training in the Royal

PERELMAN PREMIERED

At Bucks County. The world premiere of S. J. Perelman's comedy, "The Beauty Part," starring Bert Lahr, will be presented Monday at Michael Ellis' Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope. The play will be given through Saturday, September 30.

In his new satirical work, Mr. Perelman investigates the contemporary phenomenon of the housewife who has to express herself "creatively." He views this creature with amusement and skepticism.

Bert Lahr is surrounded, in the Perelman play, with a supporting cast which includes Jack Gilford, Neva Patterson, Larry Hagen, Carl Huston, Dan Tobin, Patricia Englund, SHE'S WIRED FOR SOUND: Susan Strassburg records razor-edge hysteria in "Scream of Fear," starting Friday at Lawrence Drive-In. The co-feature will be "Stop Me Before I Kill."

David Doyle, Arnold Soboloff and Bill Lee Massena.

James Lee, director of "The Beauty Part," also directed S. J. Perelman's television play, "Malice in Wonderland." He is a playwright on his own, having written the successful play and film, "Career."

THE PLAVHOUSE

Ada (September 13-16) is created to appeal to any woman who is not convinced that her place is in the home. As a man who feels that as a general rule woman's place is in the home, the film draws little approval in this corner.

Susan Hayward stars as the determined girl from the wrong side of the tracks who goes from merely running her husband (portrayed by a prudently listless Dean Martin) to virtually directing the government of a southern state in good melodramatic fashion. Miss Hayward overcomes all obstacles to her steady climb to the political heights. Her victims range from the boss of the local political machine

Wilfred Hyde White to a group of society women (after listening to their snobbery, she flaunts her past at them, reminding them she is the daughter of a sharecropper).

Although Martin is good as Ada's puppet-like husband for the better part of the 108-minute film, neither Miss Hayward nor White offer reasonable portrayals. Miss Hayward grossly over-plays the title role while White seems rather out of place in the American South with his background as an English actor. In CinemaScope and color.

The Big Gamble (September 16-19) is one of those two-men-and-a-woman-on-a-safari items which Hollywood seems to produce almost continuously. Although this one benefits from Darryl F. Zanuck's production and a nice writer, Irwin Shaw's humor, the same story of a second cousin has appeared too often to retain any suspense.

The two men are Stephen Boyd and David Wayne. The safari involves trying to complete the first trip for a newly-established trucking firm in East Africa. Boyd and Miss Greco are married. Wayne, who has been sent along by the firm's financial brokers in Ireland to watch their interests, falls in love with Miss Greco. It's as simple as that. The film's two saving graces are a fair amount of humor, supplied primarily by stubborn Wayne, and fine African scenery, captured in

THEY KNIT IN ITALY
For English Shop. The export of fine knit dresses must be almost as important to the Italian economy as the export of wine, cheese and actress. Impeccable Italian knits are required for any well-dressed closet, and The English Shop has a splendid assortment, tailored and dressed, for you to choose from.

A pale grey-blue three-piece with straight skirt has an overblouse or tuck it in if you wish) of pale grey with short sleeves, and a jacket with a one-inch knit band in big grey stitches around the neckline and down the front, the larger stitches providing a looped, almost latticed effect.

For a tailored look, try the suit with tailored, revere collar and wide band on sleeve. We saw it in solid brown combined with brown tweedy knit, but you may prefer other shades. A short-sleeved solid color blouse goes under the jacket.

A two-piece suit in double knit beige has an overblouse decorated at its hem with metallic appliques and fashioned with a wide collar that curves gently down the front

In dresses, the knits follow the shreath style, although some have a waistline drawn by an elastic band and sash. One, in avocado or red, has a waistline marked only by a narrow leather sash. On this dress, the flat armhole seam follows right on down the sides, accented by a short row of buttons. One sleeveless sheath has a belt self at the adjustable waist and a bolero with figured over-embroidery. It's a deep, tweed green.

Moving out of the knit and into the weave, we find a sprawl of these bright, mobile, lively Pendleton wools, in tartans, domestic plaids, tweeds and solids. Pendleton's pet this year is the doughnut skirt, a full circle of assertive black plaid wool. You wear the hole around your waist.

Skirts by Pendleton are too varied in plaid and tweed mixture to give a complete description. Look for the straight skirt in red plaid, the hip-stitched in a softer one, the unpressed pleats in a big plaid, and the gored or semi-flared in solid shades of grey, bankers grey, navy or green.

Evan Picone, not to be out-stitched, displays a camel flannel with slight flares, discreet diamond stitching at the slash pocket and hand-stitching along the placket. Some Picone skirts have a fully elasticized waist by the way, and self belts.

Some of the loveliest sweaters we've seen this fall are in the group of cardigans made in and of Shetland. (We forget sometimes, that Shetland is a geographic as well as a fashion term. Ever tell you about the summer we spent in the Orlon Isles?) Well, anyway, these cardigans are heatherly Shetland colors, except for a breath-taking white one and a clear, golden maize. Each one has a two-inch band of Shetland pattern knit around the neckline in colors to contrast with the sweater, and on the yellow and white sweaters, this knit work is particularly impressive.

To keep you even warmer, The English Shop has coats and capes by Rodex, in blanket plaids or quiet "Princeton" tweeds. All the coats are cut in classic design with raglan sleeves, slash pockets, and so on. The capes, also in tweeds and small checks, come

Tight Situation

The colorful stretch tights that big and little boys and girls have been wearing for some seasons now, have blossomed forth even more into geometric design, dot and dash and stripe.

Bellows is now showing Harlequin diamonds in navy, red and green on Helanca stretch tights, and red polka dots on navy. Many of these patterned tights go on up to size 14.

The standard cotton knit is found in a striped slack for very young boys and girls. It's paired with a blazer in red or navy. In addition, there's a striped blazer that goes with blue or red slacks. The possibilities are endless.

full or three-quarter length. And if it's just raining, the shop has Grenfell raincoats now in prints: red paisley, houndstooth, blue and black check.

ROSEWOOD FOR MODERN

Like Teak Better? They used to make a lot of Victorian furniture out of rosewood, but lately modern furniture designers have discovered the drama in this red wood with its strong graining. Founders has taken rosewood and used it for "Continuous Design Program" furniture designed for bedroom, dining-room or wherever you need an impressive piece. Nassau Interiors is the store.

One double chest has pewter handles shaped like a capital "B" resting on its side. Shelves are ranged behind double doors on one side, and a tier of three drawers, including a silver drawer, lines up on the other. On top, you can have a hutch with two tall narrow doors that conceal shelves, and an open shelf on the top.

Using teak and oak, Founders next builds a dresser with two pewter knobs but three doors. (Two doors are hinged together, open with one knob.) Shallow shirt drawers take up two-thirds of the chest and shelves the other third. The top of this double dresser is matte black plastic, framed by a shallow gallery of teak.

Harvest tables, triple dressers, a six-drawer single dresser are also available, and you may choose from rosewood or teak.

Mr. Chair Number Two is a copy of the Hermann Miller chair you've seen pictures of so often. Nassau Interiors' version is only $249.50. Hermann gets more than twice as much, as you know. This —Continued on Page 8

Francis of Assisi (September 20-20) deals with the transformation of one Francis Bernardone from a rich, self-indulgent youth to a wandering holy man who ultimately founds the Franciscan Order. The producers have attempted to record, not altogether successfully, both the adventure and the inner change involved in this transformation.

Francis (Bradford Dillman) first leaves his small Italian town of Assisi to join the army of King Frederick so its 13th century effort to liberate Sicily from the hands of the infidels. But a mysterious voice brings him home, where he is imprisoned as a deserter. Upon release, he dedicates himself to God with the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience and sets out as the "joyous beggar."

To highlight the conflict of spiritual good versus materialist evil, director Michael Curtiz carefully develops the tension between Francis and his companion, Paolo (Stuart Whitman), an almost modern "heavy" whom the hero first meets on his way to war. The final break comes when Paolo loses the aristocratic Clare (Dolores Hart) to the religious life.

The film abounds in detail, ranging from the pageantry recorded by photographer Piero Portalupi to the score by Mario Nascimbene. In producing this near-epic, however, Plato A Skouras has velvet is the navy that hangs straight from the shoulder in wide pleats, trimmed with two narrow bands of white nautical braid around neck and sleeves. For sizes 3-6 only.

But for every day, try the Viyella jumper in navy lined with corded white and accompanied by a pettiblouse with hem flounce. The jumper opens at each side, so you'll be sure to see those lovely, colored coin dots and that bouncy flounce.

Gilt-and-swivel chair is a teak or walnut plywood shell filled in with back and seat foam deeply tufted in diamonds and available in black or all colors in plastic, and also in leather. There is an ottoman which is really a stool on a trident stand.

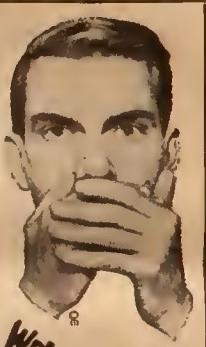

What you do is to sit in the chair and adjust its tension to your weight. Once you've got it the way you want it, you lock in your choice, and then it's your chair, by golly! Comes in a junior version, too, for use as a side chair.

Country Spice rugs look like heavy wool twist but are really acrylic. Four colors go into one strand of yarn, and the manufacturer has packed these colors separately into a clear plastic bag, so that you see precisely what accent colors would go with each rug. "Paprika," for example, has three reds and a black, "Sesame" has brown and shades of gold, "Rosemary" has rose, pinks and white, and so on. Any size or shape, including oval or octagon. To give you an idea, a 9 x 12 is $159.

The James River collection brings to Princeton the formality of 18th century Virginia in a group of wing classic lines. The same fabric, we saw one in yellow (gold damask), camel-back sofa with narrow walnut frame and a single, long cushion somewhat more high-style. Another, equally charming little loveseat with modified camel back and a high-backed chair with upholstered back and seat, and Queen Anne mahogany legs.

Problem Long Considered. Multiple housing was studied during the preparation of the Master Plan, with the aid of Isidore Candebub and Associates, professional city planners. A special citizens committee whose findings were reported in December 1958, recommended further study of the question.

A reconstituted citizens subcommittee on multiple housing, under the direction of Dr. Walton Van Winkle Jr., met for the first time in April 1959, and submitted its report in March 1960. A public hearing on the report and its 14 principles was held on April 13, 1960.

In April of last year, the Board framed a proposed ordinance dealing with multi-family dwellings which was studied by experts in the field. This year, the question was referred to Kendree and Associates for professional review and completion, and the findings of the consultants were subjects to detailed inspection by the Board.

In addition to Dr. Van Winkle, membership of the subcommittee has included Gerald Breese, Hans K. Sander, Kenneth Kassler, Nathan Howser, Leonard Johnson, Keven Kennedy, Ansley Coale, William Marvel, B. Franklin Bunn, John Mount, Charles Hurford and Raymond Bowers. Charles Agle and Norman Williams were consultants.

The Board recognizes in its report that the Township's population will inevitably increase "in the pioneer movement of growth from New York and Philadelphia," and that owners of large parcels of land will be under mounting pressure to subdivide their holdings. "Our responsibility is to see that growth and change must be orderly and consistent with those Township characteristics that make it unique and attractive," the report states.

The primary concerns of the Board, according to the report, are the continuing effort to complete the comprehensive master plan, and to establish standards and controls necessary for appropriate development of the Township.

THREE TEACHERS ADDED
To PCD Faculty. Three new teachers have been named to the faculty of the Princeton Country Day School which opened Wednesday with a record enrollment of 207 boys. This is six more than attended last year, headmaster Peter F. Rothmell reported.

The new teachers are Harry Rulon-Miller, Walter Titus and Robert Coombs, Jr. The PCD faculty now numbers 17. William Ackley, who taught English, will not return this fall. He has joined the faculty at the Cardigan Mountain School in Canaan, N. H.

New York Times' Critic Lauds Two Concerts Given Here

Editor's Note: When the International Musicological Society and the American Musicological Society held their annual meetings in Princeton last weekend, two special concerts marked the occasion. One, in Alexander Hall featured the Princeton High School choir under the direction of Thomas Hilbush; the other, in the University Chapel, presented Carl Weinrich in an organ recital.

The New York Times' review of the concerts was written by Eric Salzman, who served as TOWN TOPICS' music critic while he was a graduate student here in the Department of Music. The fine performances which featured both concerts are detailed in the following reprint of Mr. Salzman's review.)

Only a few years ago, the choral music of Anton Webern was considered to be virtually impossible to sing accurately. Yesterday evening the local high school choir here, sang the two Webern cantatas accurately and with musical understanding.

These extraordinary performances were part of the sixth day of the eighth International Musicological Society Congress being held in this country. Princeton University was the host to yesterday's session, and 850 musicologists came out here for the occasion. Without any doubt it was the boys and girls in their choir robes who stole the show.

The man responsible for their remarkable achievement was Thomas Hilbush, their conductor, who has taught them in such a way that the notes have become easy and their grasp of the music enormous.

Imagine a fresh lively group of teen-agers putting somber choir robes over their shorts, trotting out onto the stage of Princeton Alexander Hall in 90-degree heat before an international assemblage of distinguished scholars and letting loose with difficult contemporary music, all of it learned by heart. There was no strain and no stiffness. It was as if this were the most natural means of expression in the world for a bunch of American teen-agers.

Two members of the group stepped forward to take the difficult solo parts. Marcella Ramsey, soprano, handled Webern's winding, expressive lines with sweet vocal purity and astounding precision. Durant Robertson was the bass, and his achievement was less noteworthy only next to Miss Ramsey's near perfection of note and style. The works were performed with piano replacing the orchestra; Sylvia Nichols was the capable pianist.

Webern as it turns out (it always turns out this way) is really not so hard to understand and to perform. It is easy to see now that Webern's subtle simplicity applies to nearly all aspects of his art. It would be an omission of fact not to add that yesterday small adjustments were made for the singers in a few places, mainly octave transpositions.

But let no one think that, even taking these circumstances into account, that the task of Mr. Hilbush and the choir was an easy one. Hearing the notes, singing them, putting them together into lines and harmony, making them expressive and meaningful, is a challenge that few professionals today seem to be willing or able to meet. That these boys and girls could do it so magnificently is one of the happiest and healthiest signs that our musical culture has the potentialities of growth and renewal.

Another musical program was held here yesterday in the Princeton University Chapel when Carl Weinrich played organ works of Bach, Roger Sessions, Ernst Krenek, and Edward Cone. Earlier events during the day included an address by Helmuth Osthoff on "The Break-through to Musical Humanism," symposiums on "Origins of Western Polyphony" and "Bach Problems" and round tables on "Verse Meter and Melodic Rhythms in the Age of Humanism" and "The Physiological Bases of Musical Hearing."

The last included a report by Melville Clark Jr. on psycho-acoustic experiments conducted at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that have revealed unsuspected characteristics of our musical hearing ability and that are revising our notions about what makes musical instruments sound the way they do.

since "The Mouse That Roared," which also spoofed power politics.

The Ustinov work is essentially a one-man show. He plays the key role of "The General" of the five-square mile Republic of Concordia, a member of the United Nations which is wooed by both the United States and the Soviet Union. He is ably aided by Sandra Dee and John Gavin (the leads from "Tammie Tell Me True"), Akim Tamiroff and a fine group of supporting players.

"Romanoff and Juliet" occasionally lacks subtlety, especially when Ustinov sets out to prove that love conquers all with the romance between the son of the Soviet ambassador and the daughter of the American ambassador as an example. But when Ustinov's humor is involved, this doesn't matter. Recommended.

As a war film, "The Bridge" cannot be compared to the classic "Bridge on the River Kwai." It is a story of a group, a phenomena, rather than of individual characters and their reactions to the horrors of war. But when compared to the often-trite war films turned out by Hollywood (now also on the home screen periodically), it stands up well in German,

Mr. Titus, Princeton University, Class of 1957, will teach English and arithmetic. Previously, he had taught at the Gunnery School in Washington, Conn. Mr. Titus also has a master's degree from Columbia.

Mr. Coombs, who is a graduate of Muskingum in New Concord, O., and has a year of graduate study at the University of Cincinnati, previously taught at The County School in Western Maryland. He will teach history and Latin.

Mr. Rothermel also reported that the school has added a third section to the seventh grade. "The new section will enable us to have smaller classes and at the same time accommodate a few more boys," he said.

3025 AT PRINCETON
215th Year Begins Sunday.
A freshman class of 814 is among the 3025 students who will register this weekend for Princeton University's 215th year. Opening exercises will be held at 11 Sunday morning in the Chapel, following the traditional academic procession.

Graduate School enrollment of 920 is the highest in the University's history. Included are candidates for advanced degrees, Visiting Fellows, Visiting Students and a score of officers from different branches of the Armed Services and civilian employees of the State Department.

Among the ceremonies on Sunday will be a brief program at 3:30 at which President Robert F. Goheen will receive a plaque designating Nassau Hall as a federal landmark. It will be presented in the Faculty Room by Ronald E. Lee, historian of the National Park Service, representing Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Of the current undergraduate body, approximately 40 percent have registered for financial assistance in the form of scholarships, student loans and job opportunities. Various forms of work provided by the Bureau of Student Aid will earn about $250,000 for those in the self-help program.

WILL RAZE FIVE HOMES
On Jackson Street. Work will start soon on the removal of five unoccupied homes on Jackson Street, it was revealed by a spokesman for Palmer Square, Inc., owner of the properties. The families formerly occupying the homes have been relocated.

In light of the community's interest in this area and the recent open hearing on blight which dealt with the future of Jackson Street, Palmer Square, Inc. has announced that it wished to explain in advance its reasons for removing the homes. As they now stand, the houses, according to the corporation, are unsightly, encourage vandalism, and create health and safety hazards. The cost of reconditioning the homes would exceed the cost of building new ones, the owners report.

Palmer Square, Inc. further pointed out that should the proposed Jackson Street extension be approved by the Mayor and Borough Council, the five homes, or their replacements, would, of necessity, have to be demolished. If the extension were to become a reality, the owners said they would make every effort to find suitable housing for the present Jackson Street tenants—as they publicly stated earlier in the year.

Township Taxes Vs. Services To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last week Town Topics correctly reported that I suggested at a Princeton Township Committee that both taxes and services should be increased. However, your report erred in the relative emphasis I placed upon the two.

Specifically, I urged that certain present services should be made more adequate, as I will explain. At present the Township cleans leaves off the street gutters but at such infrequent intervals that the streets look unclean, leaves wash into sewers and the piles of leaves are a fire hazard to parked cars. I think the net cost of more frequent leaf collections would not be much greater since it would not increase the total number of leaves to be removed.

The second service is the present semi-weekly collection of "cans and bottles" in some areas. Almost unbelievably, the current contract of the Township with the collectors is literally restricted to "cans and bottles."

In theory, they are not required to take either a broken can opener, or a bottle cap (unless it is on a bottle). Neither are they to take other household rubbish such as a pair of old rubbers, a broken skate, a wire coat hanger, last year's license plates, or an old denture. If they take anything except cans and bottles, it is a personal favor and you become obligated.

Of course you can carry it to the dump in your own car, hire a personal trucker, or put it in the attic. However, in the interest of overall economy, I would like the Township to take anything that one small man can put on the truck, including tree branches. Each householder would still dispose of his own obsolete player piano and dead camels. (I'm not a socialist!) Yes, it would require a very small tax increase but it would still save us time and money.

Film Critiques Criticized To the Editor of Town Topics:

For the past few years I have watched your comments with respect to films shown in Princeton. There has been a definite progression. It seems from sincere constructive comment to the present pretentiousness that is so disastrous.

It is not my intention to defend any particular picture. Rather it is to express the hope that the trend may be reversed and that a more mature — if less "sophisticated" — approach may be employed in the writing of genuine critiques in the future.

Open Space Program
To the Editor of Town Topics:
As Chairman of the Princeton Township Citizens Advisory Committee on Open Space I wish to thank you for the recent accurate reporting of the preliminary Report of the Committee which was submitted to the Princeton Township Planning Board on July 27.

The information contained in your story plus additional news releases in the future will help citizens of Princeton Township to comprehend more fully the urgent need for an Open Space Program if our Township is to retain its present residential integrity.

The official hearings to be held later this fall will provide the opportunity to discuss in detail the various ways the Open Space Program can be implemented. Such implementation may be accomplished in various ways, such as:

1. The outright acquisition by either gift or purchase of land for recreational or conservation purposes.

2. An ordinance to prohibit construction of buildings in the Flood Plain of Stony Brook and its branches.

3. The maintenance of large lot zoning in the diabase rock area in the Northerly area of the Township because of the poor or inadequate drainage and undependable water supply.

4. The acquisition by gift or purchase of development and scenic easements.

5. The cluster technique for use by developers.

If, in their wisdom, the citizens of Princeton Township decide to support Open Space, these are some of the techniques available to carry out this type of program.

Even though the Open Space Program is not as yet an official part of the Master Plan, easements have already been given to our municipality. Hunt and Augustine, Inc., developers of "Winfield," the tract on North Road and the Great Road, most generously and in cooperation with the Program, has donated easements for walking along Stony Brook. These easements provide a 35 foot strip running along the north side of Stony Brook which will eventually be accessible from the Great Road.

These easements are a splendid beginning of what we hope will be an effective plan to protect the beauty and preserve the character of the Township. Princeton is Princeton largely because of its unusual beauty and favorable setting. We who live here can agree that it is in the public interest to do what we reasonably can in order to save these unique values.

When we have a long range Open Space plan we are confident that many landowners and citizens will be anxious to help.

If anyone desires further information before the Public Hearings, he will find all the Committee members listed below eager to discuss the Plan.

JAMES C. SAYEN,
Chairman

Open Space Committee members are G. W. Breeze, Thomas P. Cook, Mrs. J. V. A. Flue, Lyle Fitch, Mrs. Gordon Knox, Simon Mareson, W. M. Sloane and Mrs. Stanley Smoyer.

versal and vital issues facing for Goodwill Industries of the citizens of the Princeton New Jersey, will launch the Borough is a determination Woman's Club of Princeton on whether the Jackson Street its new fall season. Mrs. Taylor-area should be considered for or will speak next Thursday blighted and thus ready for at 1 p.m. at the newly com-Urban Renewal. We are pieted Shrine Club on River strongly opposed to any such Road determination. It is unwarranted by the facts and undesirable as a precedent for future Borough actions.

The "pro-blight" witnesses did not prove an acceptable case for blight within the area considered in the Planning Board's hearings. The facts of the matter are these: the planners wanted a new Jackson Street and they wanted Uncle Sam to pay for it; the mere circumstance of residents of the area being in the way was considered unfortunate for them.

This is a grossly unfair way of handling the matter. It should not be allowed anywhere, and most certainly we will not permit in it Princeton. If a new street was the only thing wanted, this should have been stated as the objective. The Borough then could have explored the possibility of a trade with Princeton Municipal Improvement (Palmer Square, Inc.) and other property owners for the necessary right of way."

Ask Nature of Plan. "If it were not just a street that was wanted, what was the plan for the area? Housing for those that would be displaced? A super-market? More parking?" Whatever the plan, if any, it has been a well kept secret. So hush-hush was it in fact, that the Planning Board vote was taken without public knowledge of what the proposed new use would be.

This attempt at Urban Renewal was to be merely the first step of a planned change for the Borough from a residential college town in a central, commercialized city with six story apartment houses and all the noise and congestion that go with a highly urbanized community.

This change of character in Princeton is not what we as citizens and candidates want. Most definitely it is not what the vast majority of the people in the Borough want.

Fortunately, many citizens have been highly vocal in expressing their concern. These outcries have not gone unheard by the proponents of the "Big Borough" concept, a concept set forth in the proposed revision of the 1950 Master Plan. These Big Borough advocates have back-tracked and are beginning to soft pedal the devastating character of these proposals. We must not relax our vigilance not to defeat a change, as such—but to defeat deliberate destruction of existing values."

MUSIC CONVENTION HERE
 On Sunday, The New Jersey Music Teachers Association will hold its first annual convention at The New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street, on Sunday. Presiding at the one-day meeting will be Miss Frances Clark, director of The New School.

During the convention, plans will be made to affiliate the group with the Music Teachers National Association, the oldest national music organization.

Arrangements are being handled by Miss Louise L. Goss of Princeton in cooperation with Dr. S. Turner Jones, executive secretary of the national group. The convention will include workshops in group piano instruction, string instrument teaching and high school choral music led by Miss Clark, Samuel Applebaum of Newark and Laurence Dilsner of Long Branch respectively.

Following the convention banquet at 6 at the Nassau Inn, the group will hear a demonstration rehearsal of the Westminster Choir conducted by Warren Martin. Registration begins at The New School at 1:30, with the opening session starting at 2:30.

NURSERY SCHOOL READY
 13th Year of Sessions. The University League Nursery School on Washington Road will begin its 13th year for three and four year olds on Monday, September 18. Mrs. Margaret Turitzin, a teacher at the school for the past year and a half, will assume the directorship.

The school staff includes Mrs. Helen Grasberg, Mrs. Eugenie Chagnon and Mrs. Katherine Stroup. Inquiries about admission for 1962-63 may be made by calling Mrs. Irvin Glassman, WA 1-6491.

FIRST AID CLASS OPENS
 Free to All. Free instruction in first aid will be given by the Rocky Hill First Aid and Rescue Squad in a series of classes starting Tuesday and continuing for five successive Tuesdays.

Classes will meet from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Squad's Building, just off Washington Street in Rocky Hill. Frank Coccilillo, known throughout New Jersey for his work in first aid, will give the approved standard Red Cross first aid course, following it with the advanced course, for those who pass the elementary work.

The class will be limited to 25 persons. It is open to all regardless of place of residence. Those who are interested should call Otto Young, WA 4-1002 after 5 p.m. to register or to obtain additional information.

PLANS APPROVED
But Flood Plain is Problem
 The Stony Brook flood plain was the chief object of concern by the Township Planning Board when its members met Monday night to discuss plans for "Winfield" and "Brookstone." "Winfield" is the name given to the Hunt and Augustine development of the Great Road near Mountain Avenue. The plot formerly belonged to Princeton Theological Seminary.

The Brookstone plans were approved by the Board subject to the requirement that the builder widen ten lots and shift the lot line on two lots about 300 feet south, thereby adding more land to the flood plain. This makes the lots smaller and not quite so deep. In addition, the developer, Lawrence Greene, will be required to move the loop of Brookstone Drive farther north for a gentler radius, and alter the dedicated piece of the Township's "G" Road.

In response to questions by Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, said that the 12-foot stream encroachment line would be protected through a new Township policy of requiring a developer to sign a "recordable instrument."

This document would be filed with the deed, and would specify, among other things, that the builder could not put either fill or buildings within the 12-foot line. At present, the State Water Policy Commission must approve any buildings within the 12-foot line. At present, the State Water Policy Commission must approve any building within this line, and Mr. Crooks is afraid that builders might appeal successfully to the state unless the Township protects itself legally.

Walkway Denied. R. Kenneth Fairman, mayor, told the Planning Board that Mr. Greene, the Brookstone developer, has been asked by the Township to give a 35-foot easement along the brook for a public walkway but had declined to do so. Mr. Crooks had expressed the hope that the length of Stony Brook might be open to walkers, and that the stream might be the center of a public "green strip." Such a strip is on state and county recreational master plans, and on many municipal master plans, Mr. Crooks said.

Mayor Fairman suggested the name "Parkway" for the road that will eventually go from Route 206 at Cherry Hill to Rosedale until a suitable name can be found. However, it was decided to call the present section Hunt Drive for the indefinite future.

Mr. Augustine is dedicating a 35-foot easement on the east side of Stony Brook as a pub-

Bathe Before Midnight

Anyone who takes a bath or a shower in Princeton after midnight will be hampering the community's preliminary efforts to solve its sewer problems.

Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw reported that during the next few weeks, a crew of men from the Jersey Testing Laboratories of Newark will be measuring the flow of water in the sewers from midnight until the early morning hours. It is during these hours when there should be no water flow—so don't take that shower and cross them up—the testing company hopes to be able to detect and measure the amount of water that is filtering into the system.

If you see men tampering with a manhole cover in the early morning hours, Mr. Brokaw warned, don't call the police. They aren't trying to steal scrap iron. The men will be working in both the Township and the Borough, the Borough Engineer added.

The class will be limited to 25 persons. It is open to all regardless of place of residence. Those who are interested should call Otto Young, WA 4-1002 after 5 p.m. to register or to obtain additional information.

WINDSOR CONSIDERS
Multiple Housing Change
 At a lively public hearing held Friday night, the West Windsor Planning Board heard members of the community and builders express themselves on the Board's proposals to amend the present multiple housing ordinance.

The amendments would increase the minimum lot area from 3,000 to 6,000 square feet per apartment; reduce the number of net apartments per acre from 14 to 7; increase the habitable floor area minimum from 550 to 650 square feet for one-bedroom apartments, and from 700 to 800 square feet for two-bedroom apartments; change side and rear yard requirements; and require that access be by existing public roads sufficient to accommodate the traffic.

Stanley Fielder, developer who has a garden apartment project pending before Township officials, asked whether West Windsor would re-inburse him if the amendments were passed.

"I acted in good faith when I bought the land," he said. "I complied with every part of the zoning ordinance as it now exists, and spent money on the land. I have no future confidence in any zoning law you pass if you're going to change it in this way."

Change or Status Quo? Mr. Fielder was told that the Township did not plan any reimbursements and that zoning laws were "progressive," that is, subject to change as the municipality grew.

He then suggested to the Board that it was illogical to accept industrial and research plants, and then say to them, "but your people can't live here."

Members of the Board told Mr. Fielder that the Township felt there was a need for garden apartments for single people and plant workers, and that the amendments were not intended to drive out apartment builders altogether.

Mr. Fielder then suggested that the road requirement provision was faulty because it made the Township engineer responsible for deciding whether a road was "sufficient" to accommodate apartment traffic.

"One man shouldn't have that power," he said. "The specific requirements should be down in the ordinance in black and white. But I'm not trying to give you a hard time," he added.

Master Plan Asked. A representative of the West Windsor Taxpayers' Association asked the Planning Board to formulate a complete Master Plan before "piecemeal zoning".

He was told by the Board teen-agers in the Princeton area are invited to a Teen launched population studies. Dance sponsored by the Young Republicans of Princeton and survey and had been considering a master plan for many years.

A representative of Sands Associates, another concern whose proposed garden-apartment project is pending before the Planning Board, joined Mr. Fielder to protest the amendments, pointing out that the firm had hired lawyers, architects, civil and sanitary engineers and planners and had purchased the land in the belief that the standing ordinance would apply.

"These amendments are almost confiscatory," he commented. At the close of the public hearings, the Planning Board announced that it would not reach a decision on the proposed amendments before the next regular meeting of the Board on September 27.

NO AID FOR ARIAS: Donald Barringer (left) thinks that the Metropolitan Opera is just one more organization that would be better off without government aid than with it. Ronald Bamby agrees with the man who said that in opera, a man who gets stabbed starts to sing instead of bleed.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you feel that the Metropolitan Opera Company should receive financial support from the government?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Mrs. Martin D. Kruskal, 60 Little Brook Road, housewife: Oh, definitely. We just spent a year in Europe and the first month there, particularly in Munich, I saw 12 operas, which is more than I have seen in a lifetime in the United States. They're cheaper there, and everybody, in every earning bracket, attends. Throughout Europe opera is helped by the government.

Jerald Hanks, Lawrenceville Road, Pennington, secretary and treasurer of an atomic reactor concern: No, I don't think so. I think we folks who want to go ought to pay for the cost of opera ourselves.

Mrs. Stanley Forgue, Growers Mill, housewife: Yes, I think they should. I'd hate to see it discontinued because of this wage dispute. I think the Met unquestionably adds a great deal of interest to the cultural life of the whole country. I feel this would go against federal aid, at a time when there are so many hands out for it, if the musicians were to get an outrageously high salary. On the other hand, something should be done to insure the Metropolitan Opera will remain a part of our cultural life.

Robert Cope, 48 Nassau Street, Unitarian minister: Yes, I feel the government should, somehow or other, support, subsidize and sponsor all the arts in this country.

Mrs. Neal Cooper, Quaker Bridge Road, housewife: I feel the Metropolitan Opera makes a tremendous contribution to the culture of this country, but I think it is too bad that the government had to step in. I hope it is just a temporary thing and the Met can work it out themselves. I wouldn't like to see government support on a permanent basis. I just hate to see the government get involved with various things. Next it will be the railroads. I'm for free enterprise even in the Metropolitan Opera.

Frank Nutly, Belle Mead, executive for Educational Testing Service: I do, I feel the arts, especially arts of this type, are limited in appeal and limited in the kind of distribution they can have to people. In view of the fact that these arts, under our present society, will never be fully self-supporting, we owe it to the arts themselves and to ourselves to underwrite them as a public work. My feeling is that then we may find they can be made available to more people in more parts of the country than they are now.

Mrs. John Young, Great Road, homemaker: No, I think the government is getting into too many things. I don't believe in all this government aid.

W. Patrick Goussy, Ithan, Pa., office manager: Yes, because it is an institution in this country. What's New York City without it? Other foreign countries, Italy, for example, give financial support to opera companies. The government is spending my taxes on other things, it might as well spend some of it on opera.

Martin Rohn, Linden Road, Bucks County, Pa., owner of Nassau Shoe Tree: Yes, if this country is willing to spend billions abroad to help other people, why not subsidize opera for the enjoyment and intellectual improvement of our own people.

Mrs. Floyd Campbell, 105 Leigh Avenue, housewife: Yes, I think the Metropolitan Opera is an institution for the American people. After the threat of not having any opera season this year, I think the government should have stepped in right then with some financial aid. If they had, this thing wouldn't have dragged on as it has. I understand that even now they aren't going to get back five of their stars and one conductor because of the late contract. I think the government can do a little bit more financially for the school systems in this country, too.

Kenneth Luther, 231 Witherspoon Street, graduate student, oriental studies: Yes, I'm in favor of government subsidies to the arts in general. I think it has been a fairly useful and successful policy in Europe.

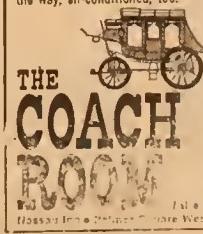

Donald Barringer Jr., 7 Stuickner Drive, Lawrenceville Township, research chemist, American Cyanamid: I don't think the government should help it, actually. I don't see the Metropolitan Opera as being vital to any government function. It is more a matter of taste. I think if we want to have opera, music lovers ought to support it; they ought to be willing to pay the price of keeping it going. I think it will cost less this way, anyway. Usually, when the government gets started in something, a

here are the reasons why

1. Now is the time when Sylvan Pools' prices are the lowest ever on all 50 custom shapes & sizes. Choose an existing Sylvan shape or design your own with Sylvan.

2. Sylvan's prices now mean that you can save $250 up to $650 depending upon size. Example: a 20' x 40' pool priced at $4790 may now be purchased for $4390.

3. Pool shown above—the 3 pools in 1 Sylvan "S"—may now, for the first time, be purchased at no extra cost. It has clear swimming, separate diving & wading area.

4. By buying & installing your pool now you have the opportunity for arranging and completing all your landscaping before the next full swimming season arrives.

5. Buy and install your Sylvan Pool now and be assured of swimming from the firm warm day next season. This means you will have 100% usage of your pool next year.

6. The savings you'll enjoy for installation now may, in many cases, cover the purchase of a Pool Heater that will extend swimming throughout the month of October.

7. A Sylvan-engineered pool permits the free-forming of ice during the winter months. Thus, you can ice-skate and make your pool a year-round recreation center.

8. Take advantage of Sylvan's 14 years of vast experience which includes over 2400 pools built to date including hotels, motels, apartment houses, etc.

NUMBERS, PLEASE

New Telephone System Due. Starting September 25, new telephone customers will receive All Number Calling (ANC) numbers, as the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company begins its statewide program of conversion to the new number system.

The program is part of a gradual plan to bring all telephones in the country under the ANC system. Within the next five years, all telephones in New Jersey Bell communities will be ANC.

New Jersey Bell customers will receive all-number telephone numbers if they move within the state or move from out of the state to a community served by New Jersey Bell. New homes where telephones are being installed for the first time will also receive ANC numbers.

Under ANC, numerals are used in place of the standard two letters in exchange designations; thus, a telephone number listed as WA 4-9970 could be changed to 9970.

Of the 3 million telephones in New Jersey, about 150,000 already have ANC listings. About 9 million telephones throughout the country will have been converted by the end of the year, a company spokesman said.

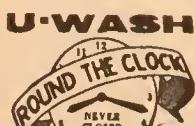

Under the present system there are 540 usable combinations of two letters and one numeral making up the central office name. The substitution of numerals for the first two letters increases the usable combinations by about 50 percent, to a total of 800 or so.

The ANC plan was developed as the most practical method of obtaining the most number combinations without adding an extra digit to the standard eight-digit telephone number.

ALL SET FOR ELEGANCE

Or, Just for Fun. When Mrs. Glenn Mohrman sets the table, she produces not just a utilitarian assemblage of cutlery, linen and china, but an imaginative still-life composed with as much care, artistry and skill as an arrangement prepared for painting by an artist himself.

This young blonde Princeton matron, a decorator by profession, has made of her unusual hobby a kind of career, lecturing and demonstrating before women's clubs, garden clubs and church groups on the uses of imagination in setting a memorable table.

She will give her talk this fall as part of the YWCA's Design for Living course, the second year she has appeared for the "Y."

"What I always emphasize is economy and imagination," Mrs. Mohrman says. "You can buy milk-glass in sets at the five and ten; you can use an old pack of cards on black plastic mats for your bridge luncheon or you can buy wonderful remnants at fabric shops to use for making things like printed napkins."

As she talks to the assembled club members, she pulls her props out of a big wicker basket, setting 20 places in the course of her demonstration. She shows how to be elegant if you have a lot of money and how to do it if you haven't; how to set a place for a traditional mahogany table, and one for a modern plastic top; how to bring flair to a formal dinner party and charm to a country lunch on the terrace; how to plan for patterned china, how to dress with iridescent poppy beads —and hiding a minute nosegay.

COLOR FOR THE TABLE: Using a Christmas red felt cloth, red napkins artfully folded to contain a flower, and a centerpiece of red and white carnations, sheet music and an old violin, Mrs. Glenn Mohrman, Cherry Valley Road, arranges one of her dramatic "still life" table settings. (Later, she may use that sheet music for placements.) Some of the props she uses to make a table setting include china barnyard animals, artificial flowers, a clock face for New Year's Eve or a giant shell. Color, imagination and the use of everyday things characterize Mrs. Mohrman's approach to decorating for entertainment. (Staff Photo)

Farm Lunch. A favorite setting of Mrs. Mohrman's begins with red bandanna mats and napkins as background for a white glass hen (or, perhaps, the placid china cow shown in the photograph on this page). Then, nested close to the hen will be an apothecary jar full of excelsior and white plastic eggs and a sheaf of uncooked spaghetti tied up with a big red ribbon.

For a by-the-sea dinner, she will use a giant conch draped uses them frequently at home for holiday settings for her four children. She uses musical instruments, too, borrowing a family trumpet to use as a cornucopia, standing an antique drum on the table or using a violin (see photo).

"It's the woman who has to economize, both on space and money, who really presents the challenge," Mrs. Mohrman says. "I often show women what can be done with a card-table and the imaginative use of burlap mats, for instance."

Be Unconventional. She suggests that one way to make a small table—or any table—an unusual table is to alter the usual symmetrical seating arrangement by placing mats off center. Or she will lay the mat to hang over the table edge.

"For a dinner for four, why not put host and hostess at each end of the table with a guest immediately to the right of each?" she suggests. "That way you avoid the usual foursquare look. Or seat guests on the same side, with host and hostess at each end. That way, you can fix a one-sided floral, or what have you, arrangement, and give everybody a good view."

While she talks and sets her

20 mats, Mrs. Mohrman passes her audience a collection of colored pictures of table-settings so that women can see even more than the 20 ideas she presents herself.

At present, Mrs. Mohrman confines herself to the "Y" and to clubs, but last fall, she did a series of 12 table settings for the Lenox China Company showrooms in Trenton. She began setting tables publicly about eight years ago as an Army wife who wanted something to do. Trained at the University of Michigan art school, she worked on the decoration of the Thomas Jefferson "Honeymoon Cottage" at Monticello and decorated homes for several Charlottesville, Virginia, clients. She also worked in the decorating department of Lord and Taylor in New York.

Women who have watched Mrs. Mohrman's imagination at work say that she leaves out only one small detail: how can any hostess possibly produce a meal to match in artistry the beautiful table she has set to accommodate it?

Report from THE MAYOR

Constitution Day. The public is invited to a brief informal but impressive community celebration of Constitution Day this Sunday afternoon at 4 in the Faculty Lounge of the Firestone Library.

September 17 is the date that marks the completion of the drafting of the historic document 174 years ago. The Princeton Chapter of the DAR has arranged some special events which will include paying special honor to Princeton's great teacher, scholar and interpreter of the Constitution, Edward S. Corwin.

Professor Corwin's writings on the Constitution have played a monumental role in helping Americans to understand the very basis of their political system. Through many, many editions of his ever-changing volume on "The Constitution and What It Means Today," Mr. Corwin helped many generations of scholars and practitioners of government to an understanding of the genius of the American Constitution. It is expected that many of his former students will be on hand to greet him.

Special book exhibits will be displayed and flags will be given by the DAR to youngsters who attend the special event. The Mayor counts it as one of the rich experiences of his life that he had the opportunity to benefit from two years of stimulating graduate study under Professor Corwin's great teaching.

Of Course. President Paul E. Orr, Jr. of the Princeton United Community Fund, has asked the Mayor to help enlist the cooperation and support of the Princeton Community for the annual campaign which starts on Monday. The goal is $250,000 in support of 38 agencies whose health, recreation, family and child care services mean so much to the maintenance of the fine community we all enjoy.

How much the people throughout a troubled world would give to secure for their fellows the kind of life we often take for granted! Surely we can not fail to support the great community effort that helps to prove that we are our brother's keeper.

A Planning Schedule. At the regular September meeting of the Borough Planning Board last Tuesday, the members devoted most of the session to a review of the activities of the board thus far in 1961, the fixing of priorities on their attention for the coming months, and a look at the budget needs for money, time and effort on planning for the five or six years ahead.

It was hoped that the advisory committee might soon complete its study of the consultant planner's suggestion for master plan revision and that on September 26, the Board might have a special meeting of its several subcommittees with the advisory members. It is expected that a series of public hearings may be scheduled on various subject matter areas involved in the master plan efforts when the board and the advisory group have had a full exchange of views and a set of proposals has been hammered out.

"Tell It To The Mayor!" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held at Borough Hall on Friday, September 15, and Friday, September 22, from 7 to 10 p.m.

No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. Often a quick question can be answered by telephoning the Mayor at WAlnut 4-3118.

Last week's schedule also included a lengthy agenda of a preparation session with Borough Council and key staff.

BANKERS HAVE NEW QUARTERS: This new, air-conditioned Colonial structure is now the home of the New Jersey Bankers Association. The building, designed and built specifically to meet the needs of the Association, is at 499 North Harrison, near Ewing. It contains a large general office, four private offices, a workshop, a luncheon room for the staff and a library-conference room.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BANKERS MOVE IN

To New Building. Moving to larger quarters designed solely to serve the needs of its day-to-day operations, the New Jersey Bankers Association took up residence this week in its new headquarters at 499 North Harrison Street. Offices were formerly at 29 Hulme Street.

According to William H. Keith, National State Bank, Newark, president of the association, only one other state bankers' group has its own building designed especially for its use.

In addition to office, conference and cafeteria facilities for the staff of eight persons, the new Colonial-style building has a workshop area which accommodates all the printing and mailing equipment needed for the preparation and distribution of material to the 233 banks and 430 branch offices that are members of the association.

Outside, the building is Colonial brick with a flagstone porch and cream-colored wood paneling. A loading platform at the rear opens into the workshop, and a parking lot in the rear has been laid out for 16 cars. Inside, the Colonial motif continues, and the library-conference room is modeled after an apothecary shop in Williamsburg.

CREDIT MEETING SET
By Chamber of Commerce, The Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce is in process of forming a Credit Association, open to all business firms in the area. The organization meeting will be held September 27 at noon at the Nassau Inn.

Membership in the association will be included with Chamber membership, with no additional cost. To obtain the benefits of this credit program, merchants must be a member of the Chamber.

A final election of officers will be held after the Credit Association is completely organized. Assisting in the formation of the group is Daniel Graziano of the Credit Bureau of Trenton. Further information may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce office at 84 Nassau Street.

ADDITION BEGUN

At 195 Nassau, foundations have been laid for a 2½-story addition to the Thompson Building at 195 Nassau Street on the Nassau Street School side. Scheduled for completion by the end of November, the structure will offer 5000 square feet for offices and shops.

The Nassau Street front will show two display windows, one on a "sub-level" and the other approximately five steps up from the sidewalk. The addition is 134 feet deep, and the building in the rear will be only two stories high. These 12 units will face north, at right angles to the present Thompson Court.

The architect is Dana Stets, who has designed a brick Georgetown Colonial structure. Central air-conditioning, parking in the Court, and janitorial and secretarial services will be included in the rent. Tenants will have their choice of paint or paneling, and may select their own lighting fixtures and floor tile. The builder for the first stage is Clinton Clement.

Because 195 Nassau is located in a B-1 zone, there are no side yard requirements. The south wall of the addition is on the property line, directly adjacent to the Nassau Street School fence.

Thompson Realty Expands. Thompson Realty has taken over two of the rooms formerly occupied by Audio Lab and the office of Dr. Willis Paine, all on the first floor of the Thompson Building. Two new people have been added to the sales staff. They are Peter Hinkle, who came to Princeton from New York City, and Mrs. Charlotte Morrell, a former resident of Mount Lucas Road, who now lives in Princeton Junction.

The real estate firm has been elected a member of the Mercer County Board of Realtors, to which about a quarter of Princeton's real estate companies belong. Thompson Realty has obtained its Pennsylvania broker's license and took a booth at the Flemington Fair last week, the first real estate organization to do so in the fair's 60 years.

TWO COURSES OFFERED

Under Chamber's Guidance. Two courses offered last year under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce will be made available again this fall, executive director Benjamin J. Palumbo has announced.

The course in "Practical Politics" will begin next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Second Presbyterian Church and continue once a week for eight sessions. Mayor John Huddleston of Pennington will serve as moderator.

Seventeen weekly meetings are planned for the Economics Discussion Group, which will hold its first session September 27 in the Chamber office, 82 Nassau Street. Paul VanWegen, head of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association and a former professor of economics, will be the discussion leader.

This course considers the numerous aspects of the free enterprise system and its value to American business firms. Loar J. Quickle, chairman of the Chamber's Education Programs Committee, is making arrangements for both courses.

MODERATOR: John T. Hudelson, Mayor of Pennington, will moderate the course in "Practical Politics" which will be repeated this fall under Chamber of Commerce auspices.

SPORTS In Princeton

ALL-STAR GAME SET
At Marquand Park. The second annual All-Star Game staged by the Sportsmen's Softball League will be played Saturday at 1:30 at Marquand Park. Ivy Inn regular-season champions, will be opposed by an all-star team composed of the top players selected from the other three teams in the league.

Representing the Sportsmen another junior, Dan Phillips, will be Bob Cook, Jake Bartolino, Joe Tufano, Joe Toto, Frank Pinelli, Frank Zalvino and Harry Kahny. King's Inn players named to the squad that does not include Conroy are Russ Watson, Bill and Don Swanhart, Bucky Oshorn, Jim and Butch Chambers, Mike Dohanic and Dave Hoadley.

Hinkson's will be represented by Ralph Procaccino, Tony Pinelli, Mike Boceanfuso and Frank Cox. Procaccino and Dohanic will serve as co-managers.

The Ivy Inn squad consists of George Boceanfuso, Tex Sannino, Lou DeMeglio, Bill Murphy, Dan Sculerati, George Sickel, Jack Petrone, Bob Kehoe and Tom Wood. Pete Sannino is the manager.

TEAM TAKES SHAPE
With Two Weeks to Go. Although one or two more changes may be made before the 1961 football season opens against Rutgers two weeks from Saturday, the lineup that will represent Princeton is fairly well set. To no one's surprise, it contains only three seniors.

All the rest are juniors, and despite the presence of a number of promising sophomores, this may be the first season in several years when not a single first-year man on the varsity cracks the starting lineup. Actually, one sophomore may be in at the kickoff against Rutgers in the person of linebacker Mort Fuller, who he will be platooned for defensive purposes with center Bob Burrus. Since the regular lineup is generally accepted as the 11 players seeing action on offense, Burrus figures to be one of eight juniors earning starting berths this season.

The only seniors on this youngest of Tiger elevens since the war ended will be Captain Ed Weinmayer, guard; Andy Conner, tackle; and Hank Large, end. As matters now stand, the other eight will all come from the Class of 1963—including all four in the backfield.

Reports from Blairstown, where the team is ending a fortnight's training in weather that has been somewhat cooler than Princeton has experienced, are that tackle may turn out to be the number one trouble spot. The coaching staff had been concerned over center and tailback, where game experience is sorely lacking, but good potential is gradually developing at these positions.

End May Be Shifted. The strength that exists at the ends (three lettermen, at least two good reserves, one extremely promising sophomore) will allow bolstering the tackle positions with a personnel switch if it proves necessary. The logical candidate would be Terry Conroy, a 6-3, 200-lb. junior who earned his letter last fall. Good progress shown by jack-of-all-trades who now weighs about 215, is set at one tackle position, while junior Stan Schainker, at 210, is holding down the other. Tim Callard, out of much of last season with a fractured leg, has returned to pair with Weihenmayer at guard, while Burruss appears to be winning the job as offensive center from a half dozen other candidates

As indicated on these pages last week, an all-junior backfield is taking shape. If it holds together for two seasons, it could be the first such unit within memory to represent Princeton during two consecutive campaigns.

Two of the quartet are already veterans, having broken into the starting lineup as sophomores and seen a great deal of action last fall. They are the sturdy 202-lb. quarterback, John Heinrich, whose poise and experience will be invaluable to this young squad, and the sawed-off wingback, Dan Terpack, who is almost invariably in the right place at the right time

Greg Riley, whose defensive ability in spelling Hugh Scott and Jack Sullivan a year ago kept both fresh for offensive sallies, will be the regular tailback this season. He has good speed, his passing measures up to par for the exacting position and he plays well under pressure.

Brad Urquhart, who was good as a freshman two years ago but who saw little action last fall, is the current choice at fullback. Captain of the 1963 eleven, he has high potential as a two-way player and is expected to develop well this season

In summary, there may be a development or two that will result in a change in plans, but the current starting lineup reads this way (weights in parentheses):

L.E. Barry Schuman (190)
L.T. Stan Schainker (210)
L.G. Ed Weihenmayer (195)
C. Bob Burruss (180)
R.G. Tim Callard (185)
R.T. Andy Conner (215)
R.E. Henry Large (200)
W.B. Dan Terpack (165)
Q.B. John Heinrich (202)
F.B. Brad Urquhart (183)
T.B. Greg Riley (175)

first scrimmage, Jingoll reported that Pancaro threw the ball well on the short, running passes.

At fullback, Tom Reynolds showed up better than the rest, while Tom Olsen and Bill Armstrong turned in the two best performances at quarterback. Wingback and captain of the team, Don Zuber, was sidelined with troublesome boils. In his absence, Jack Bosso and Dan Truesdell play the position. Bosso, and Jingoll, threw some good blocks.

Cooper Praised. Mike Cooper, a guard, was praised by defensive coaches Groninger and Murray for his fine defensive play. Murray a newcomer, to the PHS coaching staff this year and former co-captain of the 1953 Little Tiger team, was especially high in his praise of Cooper. Mike is the brother of Don Cooper.

Another lineman who was singled out for his play as a defensive end was Pete Greenfield. A big, 6'3", 200-pound player, Greenfield was moved from tackle to the offensive center position this year. He is one of the players who adds to the "beef on defense" which Jingoll says the Blue and White has this year.

Yet to be seen are a few boys who have transferred to Princeton. Lack of a doctor's examination has prevented them from engaging in any contact work. "We don't know yet if any of these new kids will come along," said Jingoll.

When Jingoll first learned that three backfield lettermen and Kowalski were not coming back, he commented, "This could be a long season." Nothing happened on Saturday to change that prophecy.

TOURNAMENT HELD

In YM-YWCA Tennis. A round robin tennis tournament involving six teams was staged by the YM-YWCA under the direction of Mrs. Eva Kraft. After three days of competition on the University Courts, the winner was Canada.

Members of the winning team were Peter Morse, Jack McCarthy, Charles Martinson, John Valentine, Bruce Tyler, John Mueller and Stephen Rue. Tied for second place were Australia, Randy Hobler, Sherman Winters, Simon Tully, Steve Bussard, Mike Desmond, Steve Jarem and England, Robin Fox, Stanley Palmer, Ken Kraft, Bill Barely, Peter Dumble, Alan Medvin, John Claghorn, Sam McCleary, Stokes Walker.

Third place ribbons went to France's team, Robert Szathmary, David Russellin, Gerry Cameron, Bill Hammer, Bob Bayer, Chip O'Brien, Dave and Eric Schwenker, Kurt Fischbeck and Dick Hill. Tied for fourth were Mexico (Griffith Dix, Dave Tibbles, Rick Eckels, Jim Saven, Guy Erdman, Bill Hartley, Paul Fischbeck) and the United States (Norman Furniss, John Jarem, Peter Sly, Arky Kempton, Steve Kraft, Mike Booth, Dave Westhoff, Tom Garland).

First place winners among the girls were Gretchen Taylor, Sue Hartley, Bonnie Schrader, Penny Griswold, Helen Bussard, Katie Sloane, Isabel Sloane, Holly Housner. Others participating were Joanne Jordan, Cathy de Grazia, Jaye Brinster, Barbara Hoff and Roxanne Tibbles.

Assisting with the tournament were Elizabeth Kelley, Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Mrs. Dorothy Katz, Mrs. Jane Griswold, Mrs. Elaine Fox, Mrs. Edith Rose, Debbie Endersby and Valerie Hinchenberg.

Those interested in fall tennis should join the "tennis ladder" posted at the pagoda bulletin board at the University Courts. Information about practice sessions for beginners may be obtained by calling the YMCA, WA 4-4825.

PRACTICE TO START
For Flying Fish Club. Practice sessions for the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish Club will begin September 25. Until then, informal sessions for both boys and girls are being held Monday through Friday evenings from 7 to 8.

New candidates will be taken during September and October. Prospective members will be judged on potential ability and desire to learn and should have mastered the mechanics of the breast, back, and crawl strokes. They should be between 8 and 17 years of age and may try out by seeing Walter Sorg at the YMCA office on Avalon Place.

The swim teams for boys and girls will, for the second year, enter the New Jersey YMCA Swim League and the Amateur Athletic Union Competition. Last year, the girls Flying Fish team won the division championship. Over 80 swimmers participated in both divisions.

As far as I'm concerned, opera can go the financial assistance soon it won't last. This will probably be the last year it will be able to pull itself out of the hole. It had a very large deficit last year.

Richard Holbrook, 24 Jefferson Road, junior at Yale University. No. Why should they? It's a private organization.

Sidney Socholitzky, Roosevelt, partner in Princeton Music Center. The Metropolitan Opera Company, like any large musical group such as the ballet or symphony, is not self-supporting. Our government has just decided to give an outright cash subsidy to the railroads, bee, use they were operating at a loss. It seems to me that one is just as important to us as the other. Therefore, it is my opinion that the government should grant federal funds to the Metropolitan Opera Company. Incidentally, practically every large musical organization in Europe is subsidized by its government.

Ronald Baker, Poe Road, Lawrence Township, research associate. No, I would think the Met should be and could run just like any other business, that they should in some way be able to pay their own way. I think of the Met as a luxury type thing that shouldn't be subsidized by the government.

David Waks, Mercer Street, Trenton, computer programmer for Applied Data Research. I think it should. I think it is an American cultural institution which, if it can't keep going by itself, the government should step in and support it. A lot of other things are receiving government support

now. Because I don't think it is fairly evident

CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN

For Franklin Park Church. On September 27, Christ the King Lutheran Church, Franklin Park, will launch a building program under the direction of Fred R. Huelnbergart of Lancaster, fund-raising director for the Lutheran Layman's Movement for Stewardship of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Confirmation classes will begin the first week of October, and will be open to children 13 years of age or older. The confirmation program is a two-year one, after which children are confirmed into the church. Parents who are interested are asked to call Pastor Dwight A. Huselman at AX 7-3266. Classes will be held at the Parsonage, 82 Claremont Road.

An adult church school class will begin at 9:30 a.m., October 1 under Pastor Huselman. The theme will be "Church Architecture and Worship."

Where to Go

For the benefit of newcomers to Princeton, so many of whom arrive in town for the beginning of the academic year, TOWN TOPICS will publish, for the next three weeks, the addresses of each church in the area and the name of its pastor.

This information may be found in the "Regular Services" column of the church page after the name of the church. Pastors' hours vary widely, and prospective parishioners are asked to call the church office in each case to make whatever appointments are desired.

From the material gathered at the conference, and from his talks with prominent architects and theologians, the Rev. Mr. Ritenour hopes to arrive at new insights into the field of church architecture throughout the United States. He brought back with him many photographic examples of contemporary church design abroad.

During his tour, the Rev. Mr. Ritenour conferred with and was entertained by many outstanding theologians, church architects and town planners.

BULLETIN NOTES

IMPORTED: The difference between Danish Design and Made in Denmark is quality.

Scandinavians conduct their affairs with a pleasant lack of urgency, which is the envy of American observers. Their ways have a serenity that is reflected in the pliability of their design.
Industry, for instance, is content to retain creative designers on their staffs whose function is to perfect old forms and experiment with new forms in the unhurried atmosphere of a studio. Much of their work may never see the light of day commercially. Certainly there is no pressure on them to create completely new collections once or twice a year. The emphasis is on quality, not quantity.
Design evolves. If it is good, it is kept year after year, the only change being in the perfecting of details. And since it is good to start with, it retains a timeless, undated, always usable freshness.

We'd like to show you our very own concept of a new type of light-headed living that we deeply believe in — the Techbuilt House.
